The information contained herein is intended for the recipient, is confidential and may not be disseminated or distributed to any other person without the prior approval of 3Chopt Investment Partners LLC. Any dissemination or distribution is strictly prohibited. Information has been obtained from a variety of sources believed to be reliable though not independently verified. Any forecasts represent future expectations and actual returns; volatilities and correlations will differ from forecasts. This report does not represent a specific investment recommendation. Please consult with your advisor, attorney and accountant, as appropriate, regarding specific advice. Past performance does not indicate future performance and there is a possibility of a loss.

Asset Class Performance

*Hedge fund returns are lagged 1 month. Sources: FactSet, Morningstar. As of May 31, 2022.

Fixed Income (May)

+ Fixed income securities gained in May as rates trended lower as markets priced in somewhat higher chances of a recession with weaker economic data than earlier in the year.

- As the Fed takes an increasingly hawkish stance to mitigate the harmful effects of inflation, short-term rates have moved up faster than longer-term rates.

- Foreign fixed income was modestly negative as a hedged U.S. dollar was a headwind in May.

Equity (May)

- Despite closing largely flat, equities were volatile in May and making recent lows since early 2020. Investors contended with higher rates, inflation costs, slowing consumer demand and the prospect of a recession following mixed economic data.

- Investors continue to navigate uncertainty internationally, with conflict in Europe and severe lockdowns in China leading to downward revisions of growth estimates for the year.

Real Asset / Alternatives (May)

+ Resurging travel demand and embargoes on Russian oil continued to push energy prices higher.

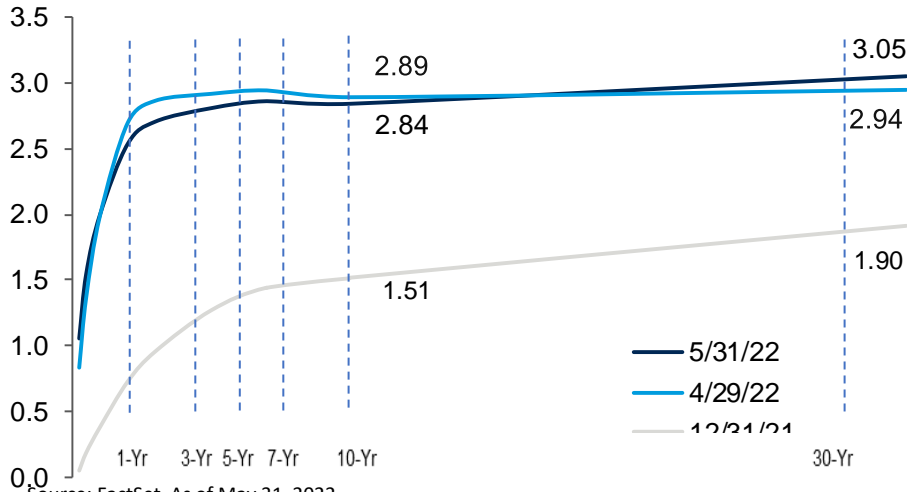

- Increasing rates and weaker sentiment among consumers weighed on real estate markets, leading to some cooling after hitting multi-decade highs in certain segments.

Fixed Income Market Update

U.S. Treasury Yield Curve

The U.S. yield curve flattened in May as increasing chances of the Fed front-loading rate hikes this year pushed yields on the front end up, while growing concerns of an economic slowdown dragged longer rates lower.

Credit Market Spreads – Trailing 5 Years

High yield bond spreads widened during May as a weaker economic outlook outweighed strong corporate fundamentals. While IG spreads now sit above their 10-year average, HY spreads remain below their 10-year average despite the widening during the month.

Source: FactSet. As of May 31, 2022.

Index Performance Attribution (May 2022)

Fixed income rebounded in May as investment grade yields decreased. A weaker dollar benefited foreign securities and non-investment grade underperformed higher quality bonds as spreads widened during the month.

Equity Market Update

Market Capitalization & Style Performance (May 2022)

Although equity markets closed May broadly unchanged, investors dealt with significant volatility within the month. Non-US markets outperformed domestic markets while Value continued to beat Growth in the month.

U.S. Equities – Returns by Sector (May 2022)

Sector performance in May was a tale of two halves. While energy and utilities were buoyed by strong demand, consumer names dropped on missed earnings due to concerns on margins due to higher costs.

Real Assets Market Update

Real Assets Performance

Commodities continued trending upward in May as inflation levels remain elevated, despite a modest deceleration from April. Industrial metals retraced their sharp gains earlier in the year, while oil and natural gas led energy's surge higher.

Source: FactSet. As of May 31, 2022.

REIT Sector Performance

Higher rates and weaker sentiment continued to hamper real estate. Industrials lagged as Amazon, the top warehouse tenant in the U.S., plans to sublease excess capacity as e-commerce slows.
